School's Roads Stretch Toward Lancers' Goals

As the students at Manchester High School attend classes, do homework, join clubs, participate in sports, or watch athletic events, they are choosing and building the roads that they will follow throughout their lives. Many choices are offered to each individual; he must decide which path to follow. A variety of courses and numerous extracurricular activities are the many roads open to MHS students. These roads are traveled to reach goals of scholastic and personal improvement. A road map not only allows one to trace the roads he has covered, it also shows all the routes open to a traveler. Plans for the future can often be made as one reviews the accomplishments of the past. A backward glance will show 1968's roads at Manchester High School.

Mr. Henderson Devotes Eleven Years To MHS

Mr. Kenneth Henderson has served MHS faithfully for eleven years. As varsity band director, he has worked with many Lancers. He helps students perfect their musical skills and guides them in other phases of their lives. As a dedicated Lancer, Mr. Henderson is always willing to take the time to help anyone who needs guidance. He gives freely of his time to help the band, Lancerettes, and majorettes prepare for the football season. Mr. Henderson has trained the band to be self-reliant; they perform flawlessly without his direction during halftime shows at the varsity football games. Lancers' music at the spring concerts and operettas is directed by Mr. Henderson.

Among Mr. Henderson's other activities are directing elementary school bands, playing with the Richmond Symphony Orchestra, leading a dance band, and composing music. "The Lancers" and "South Winds" are two of Mr. Henderson's pieces which are performed frequently at MHS.

It is in appreciation for his generosity and advice to all students and his contributions to Lancer Life that the staff dedicates the 1968 Memoir to Mr. Kenneth Henderson.

Varied Roads Compose Lancer Life Activities

Lancer Life is the series of events that constitute a school year. These events cover all facets of MHS's academic and extracurricular activities. Found at all MHS events is the strong spirit of the Lancer traditions. The influence of these traditions is seen in each activity and event at MHS. The many opportunities of Lancer Life are the varied roads open to all students.

A variety of moods are reflected by Gay Snead, Sharon Boettger, Anne Dyer, Janet Neubert, Jeanette Clanton, and Tommy White as they get into the swing of things at the annual Memoir singing party.

Lanny Gremlin, Sara Lux, and the SCA officers, Shirley Warlick, Mike Rose, Debbie Detweiler, Danny Holt, and Paul Edens listen intently during orientation ceremonies, which mark the start of a new school year.

Aspects Of A Lancer's Life Are Many; Some Old, Some New

Freshmen Carol Underwood and Melba Walton seem to be captivated by Manchester as Debbie Detweiler explains the pros and cons of Lancer Life on Student Orientation Day.

It's a big moment in the life of a junior: Mrs. Edward T. Jones assists Melissa Little and Gail Jennings as they order their class rings.

As an introduction to the regular school year, Student Orientation Day was held August 29, 1967. This program acquainted freshmen and transfer students with the rules, regulations, and opportunities of Lancer Life.

After meeting the faculty leaders, the students were introduced to their SCA officers. Next, the functions of the Honor Code and the Honor Council were explained. To promote school spirit, the varsity cheerleaders taught the group several MHS cheers. Guided tours of the school concluded the program.

In spite of the success of Orientation Day, mass confusion existed on the opening day of school. Old acquaintances were renewed and new ones made. The school was now officially in session; thus, the Lancer Life began another year.

Anticipating the prompt arrival of yearbooks, the Memoir staff arranged a "Yearbook Signing Party". The uniqueness of this party was that a band, the Shades, played and that it was held before the alumni left for college. This enabled the students to both dance and sign Memoirs.

Senior Danny Holt, escorted by June Laine, expresses a sigh of relief as he is crowned Powder-Puff King by Senior Class Sponsor Mrs. Evamon Green.

On September 30 a whistle blew. This whistle preceded the kickoff of the 1967 Powder-Puff Game. The senior girls once again donned football helmets and jerseys, while the juniors tried their jerseys on for size.

Anxiety crept into the hearts of the girls as they exercised diligently to get in shape for the big game. Practice was the key word for this event. While the girls were learning big plays like the "quarterback sweep" and the "right roll," the boys learned cheers and majorette routines.

Rivalry between all of the classes mounted to its peak at the pep rally. Songs were sung; mascots and sweethearts were announced, and the teams were officially presented to their fans.

During halftime the royalty activities occurred. The awaited moment was the announcement of Danny Holt as the 1967 Powder-Puff King.

At the conclusion of the game, the girls were tied with a score of 27–27. Exhausted and weary, they headed to the locker rooms to dress for the Powder-Puff Dance where the Deadbeats played.

At the dance following the game, Betty Beamon, Nancy Crooks, Margaret Garber, Pat Hamilton, Geraldine Duty, and Norma Ragland were named as the most valuable players of the game. This announcement concluded the evening's festivities.

Joan Putney Reigns As '67 Homecoming Queen

The entrance of the Maids of Honor concluded the Homecoming parade. Representing the Senior Class and the school were Diane Carter, Barbara Hobson, and Joan Putney.

After the band had formed an "M" and a crown, the Royal Court proceeded onto the field. At this time Mr. Edward Jones, principal, crowned Miss Joan Putney as the 1967 Homecoming Queen. After receiving a bouquet of roses, the queen's banner, and cape, Joan was driven around the field as she began her reign as Manchester's 1967 Queen.

Underclassmen Choose

Several minutes preceding the halftime festivities at the Homecoming Game on November 10, the cars in the parade lined up. Leading the parade was a Lancer on horseback. Following MHS's Lancer were the convertibles carrying the royalty. The Varsity and JV cheerleaders rode round the field in the first cars, followed by the football sweetheart and class princesses. Barbara Sommerville represented the Freshmen Class; Sharon Duncan followed in the next car as the Sophomore Princess. Participating on behalf of the Junior Class was Barbara Turner. The 1966 Homecoming Queen, Brenda Goodyear, arrived in the final car. Brenda returned from Radford College to crown one of the Maids of Honor as the 1967 Queen.

Senior Class Sponsors "Yuletide Ride;" Choirs, Band Present Program

With Christmas just around the corner, many MHS students were rushing to finish the final preparations for the Christmas Assembly and the Senior Dance.

Entertainment at the Christmas Assembly was provided by the Varsity Band. The musicians played Christmas carols and lively seasonal music. Singing the special Christmas music were the two choruses. In concluding the program, the entire assembly stood while the choirs sang the "Hallelujah Chorus."

With school closed for the holidays, the seniors worked to change the cafeteria into a "Yuletide Ride." Dancing to the music of the Deadbeats, the couples were surrounded by Christmas scenery. The decorations included Christmas trees, snowflakes, fireplaces, mistletoe, and stockings.

Diane Branch, Walter Chalkley, Margie Higgins, Carl Wood and Shirley Warlick serve vigorously as Lancer sweethearts.

Sweethearts Represent MHS Teams, Clubs

Each year certain people are given the honor of being selected to represent as sweetheart some aspect of Lancer Life. The organizations which have sweethearts are the basketball team, the football team, the track team, Hi-Y, Junior Y-Teens, and Senior Y-Teens.

The football and basketball sweethearts can be found at the games cheering their team. They also support their squad by writing good luck letters to the team.

The Hi-Y, Senior Y-Teens, and Junior Y-Teens sweethearts are noticed as they sit with each group at the meetings, attend church with the organization, and are looked up to by the club members.

Triptych Players Arouse Enthusiasm In Drama

"Skin of Our Teeth" was presented as the first production by the Triptych Players on December 1 and 2. It is a three act play written by Thornton Wilder about man's ability to overcome any problem or disaster. The play had a large cast and drew a large crowd both nights.

On March 15, the Triptych Players sponsored an Evening of One-Acts in the MHS auditorium. The first play presented was "The Trysting Place." This play was centered around a lovers' meeting place and the lovers' inability to hide their emotions. The second play, "This Still Alarm," concerned two roommates in an apartment house. The apartment house caught on fire, but the boys showed no alarm over the fire. The third play, "Reaction to Chaos," was performed at Hopewell in the District Festival. There the actors were given a superior rating and the chance to present the play at the State Festival in Charlottesville. Rodney Sineath, Steve Wilson, Doug Watson, June Laine, and Bonnie Stuart portrayed the chaos in life without the aid of costumes or scenery.

Three seniors, Tommy Zborill, Kenny Catlett, and Marshall Caudell, stand behind trophies which they earned as members of the varsity football squad.

Latin Club members Anne Oakley and Mary Burns present a portion of the program at the annual Latin Club banquet.

Kenny Catlett, first-team quarterback, accepts the highest scholastic average trophy.

Banquets Honor Students; Enhance Activities

Special banquets were held each year. Dressed in the Roman apparel, the Latin Club followed Roman traditions with their food, gladiatorial fights, dancing girls, and sacrificial rituals. In December at the Football Banquet trophies were given to the deserving players and the following year's tri-captains were announced. Pete Pihos, celebrated football player, was the speaker with Frank Soden as the Master of Ceremonies. The Language Clubs held the Tri-Language Banquet. The cafeteria decorated in the theme, "Language, the Gateway to Understanding." Quill and Scroll held its Award Banquet at Meadowbrook Restaurant where Mildred Arthur and Jackie York were named the outstanding publications staff members. Mrs. Gloria Galloway, speaker, talked about the field of journalism. In March the Basketball team held its banquet, at which time Tim Rash's number, 21, was retired. The Drama Club Banquet followed the major production, 110 in the Shade, in May.

Elaborate scaffolding is set up to enable the television crew to televise a basketball game.

Varied Additions Promote Student Interest

New additions to MHS were started in the summer and were finished early in the school year. The dugout was established beside the baseball field. It included wooden benches and a red brick finish which helped to beautify the landscape. The press box was built to accompany the football field and track. It is situated behind the homestands with outlet facilities for ten radio hook-ups and room for twenty press agents. The Monogram Club supplied ten luxurious office cushioned chairs. Closed circuit television was used extensively by the faculty and students. The Christmas program, basketball games, and plays were taped by the television crews.

Practice, Hard Work Result In Bands', Choirs' Annual Spring Concerts

Setting aside their traditional robes, the members of A Cappella Choir, Lance Singers, and the unselected mixed choruses donned formal attire for their tribute to spring. Included in the program were selections sung by the Madrigal Singers, the men's chorus, and a folk group.

Three weeks after the choral concert, the excitement of dance band music filled the auditorium to begin the band concert. Following a performance by the JV Band, the varsity band achieved a polished ending by airing compositions which highlighted soloists and certain sections of the band and also displayed the versatility of the band as a whole.

Chosen To Lead 1968 SCA

After the nominees for the offices in the Student Cooperative Association had presented their campaign speeches, the candidate's actual campaigning took place. On the following Friday night, they held the SCA Spring Dance, "Happiness is Spring" where the outgoing officers announced their replacements.

At the next assembly, a candlelight ceremony was held for the installation of the new SCA officers. The guest speaker, Mr. Ross Mackenzie, spoke on "Youth Today." After the oath was given to the 1968–69 officers, Muncie Russell, the new SCA President, presented his plans for the coming year.

Jerry composed the majority of the choreography for "110 in the Shade."

During the entire month of April, students could be found at MHS practicing for the operetta, "110 in the Shade." A calendar was provided for each cast member which showed the rehearsal schedule. The props committee had much work to do. The scenery was built on movable flats. Much work was required to transform the phys. ed jeep into Starbuck's wagon. Costumes were rented from the Virginia Museum Theatre.

Triptych Boosters were sold to finance printing the program. The Publicity Committee's widespread activities included selling ads and boosters, distributing posters to area schools and businesses, sending announcements to radio stations, and selling tickets.

MHS teachers and county dignitaries were invited to the first presentation of "110 in the Shade", the invitational dress rehearsal, held in the MHS Theatre. Telegrams were received from area schools and groups associated with the production wishing the performers good luck.

The dramatists in "110 in the Shade" experimented with new techniques. Instead of closing the curtains after each scene, the cast's theory was that the audience would feel closer to the action on stage if the curtains remained open. Between scenes, because of the open curtains, spectators were able to see the actors themselves move the scenery into place for the next scene.

"110 in the Shade", based on the Broadway play "The Rainmaker" by Richard Nash, was directed by Mr. Howard Cobbs. During each performance, he sat in the rear of the theater and watched the audience's reaction. If Mr. Cobbs felt that the people really wanted the rain for these actors, the signal was given. This signal signified an excellent performance by the cast and also started the rain which fell on stage by way of an overhead pipe with holes in it. The rain was soaked up by paper, plastic, and grass which made it necessary for the actors to perform around the obstacle.

On Saturday night as the cast stood in the rain, the audience showed their acclaim with a standing ovation. Before attending the cast party, the performers cleaned off their make-up with a cold cream battle held in the music room.

The major cast of "110 in the Shade" included:

Lizzie Curry	June Laine
H. C. Curry	Doug Watson
Jimmy Curry	Steve Wilson
Noah Curry	Bill Crostic
Starbuck	Bobby Coleman

Snookie Updegraff	Bonnie Stuart

Seniors Enjoy A Variety Of Privileges, Prepare For Graduation

Special Senior privileges were granted to the Senior Class at the beginning of May. The privileges involving the Senior Building were extended to allow seniors to "play" in the area outside it during activities period. During the entire year the Senior Building housed the senior homerooms; the occupants were given the freedom to roam the entire building during activities period. Other senior privileges included the left water fountains, a senior parking aisle, and a senior lunch line. A unique privilege was Bermuda Day on May 31, when only seniors were allowed to attend school wearing bermuda shorts.

Holiday Inn West was the scene of the annual Senior Class Banquet. Judy Self, testator, read the Last Will and Testament. The prophecy was presented by the Prophet, Rodney Seneath. The Senior Lance Singers Concluded the evening by singing "A Dream is a Wish Your Heart Makes," followed by June Laine singing "Theme from Valley of the Dolls."

Eiffel Tower, Sidewalk Cafes, Create Parisian Night

Sidewalk cafes, the Arch de Triumphe, the Eiffel Tower, and flower carts lined the cafeteria walls as the courtyard and cafeteria turned into "Paris by Night." The Parisian atmosphere took form as the Junior Class presented the Junior-Senior Prom. The courtyard was attended by French waitresses and a painter with his easel. The table decorations were composed of wine bottles and red checked table cloths. Underneath the stars, the courtyard developed into a picturesque French park with a flowing fountain.

Outstanding members of the junior and senior classes made up the prom figure. After being introduced, the couples formed a "68", the traditional "M", and the aisle for the newly crowned 68 prom king and queen. The king, Rodney Sineath, and queen Shirley Warlick, led the figure in the dance to the prom's theme song, "L'amour est Bleu."

Monday, June 3, Senior Day, was a special event for members of the Senior Class. The highlight of this day, which honored seniors, was the Senior Awards Assembly. At two o'clock the seniors lined up in the halls adjacent to the auditorium. They then marched into the auditorium; the girls, carrying red roses, wore white dresses; the boys were attired in white shirts and dark ties.

At this program the class of '68 presented its gift to MHS, a podium with the Manchester seal designed by Mr. Meredith Luck. Terry Lee and Janice Bates, the class mascots, sang "'68 is Great" to the Seniors. Mary Burns, class poet presented the class poem and historian, Dan Holt read the class history. Mr. Edward Jones welcomed and introduced special guests who gave awards to outstanding seniors for citizenship and scholastic achievements. The Junior Class concluded the Senior Assembly by singing a special song, "Try to Remember" to the graduating seniors.

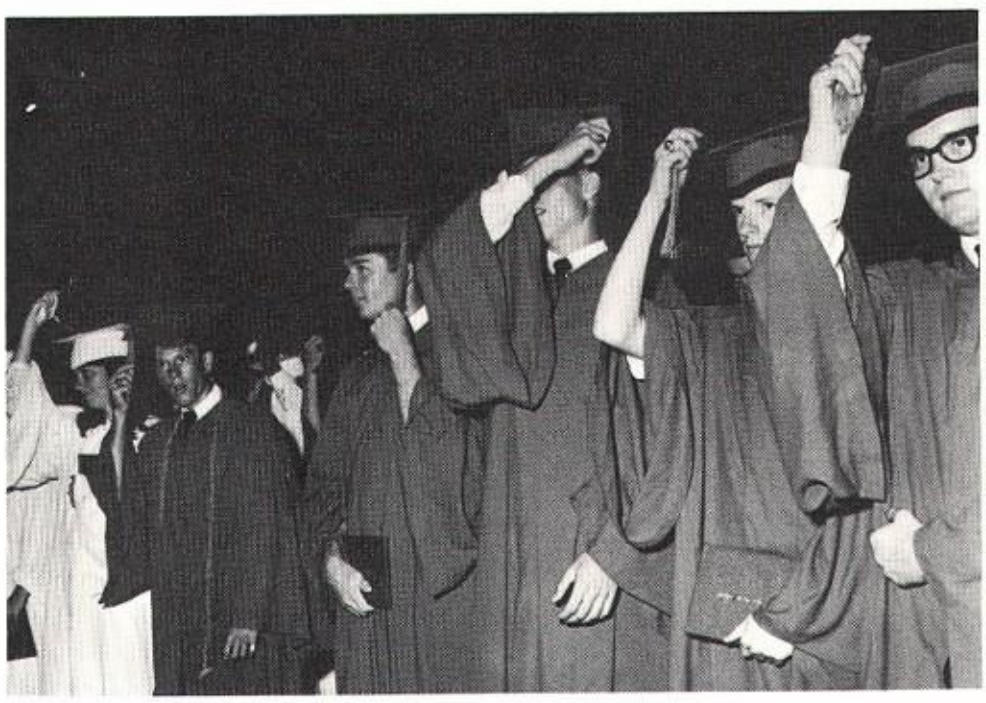
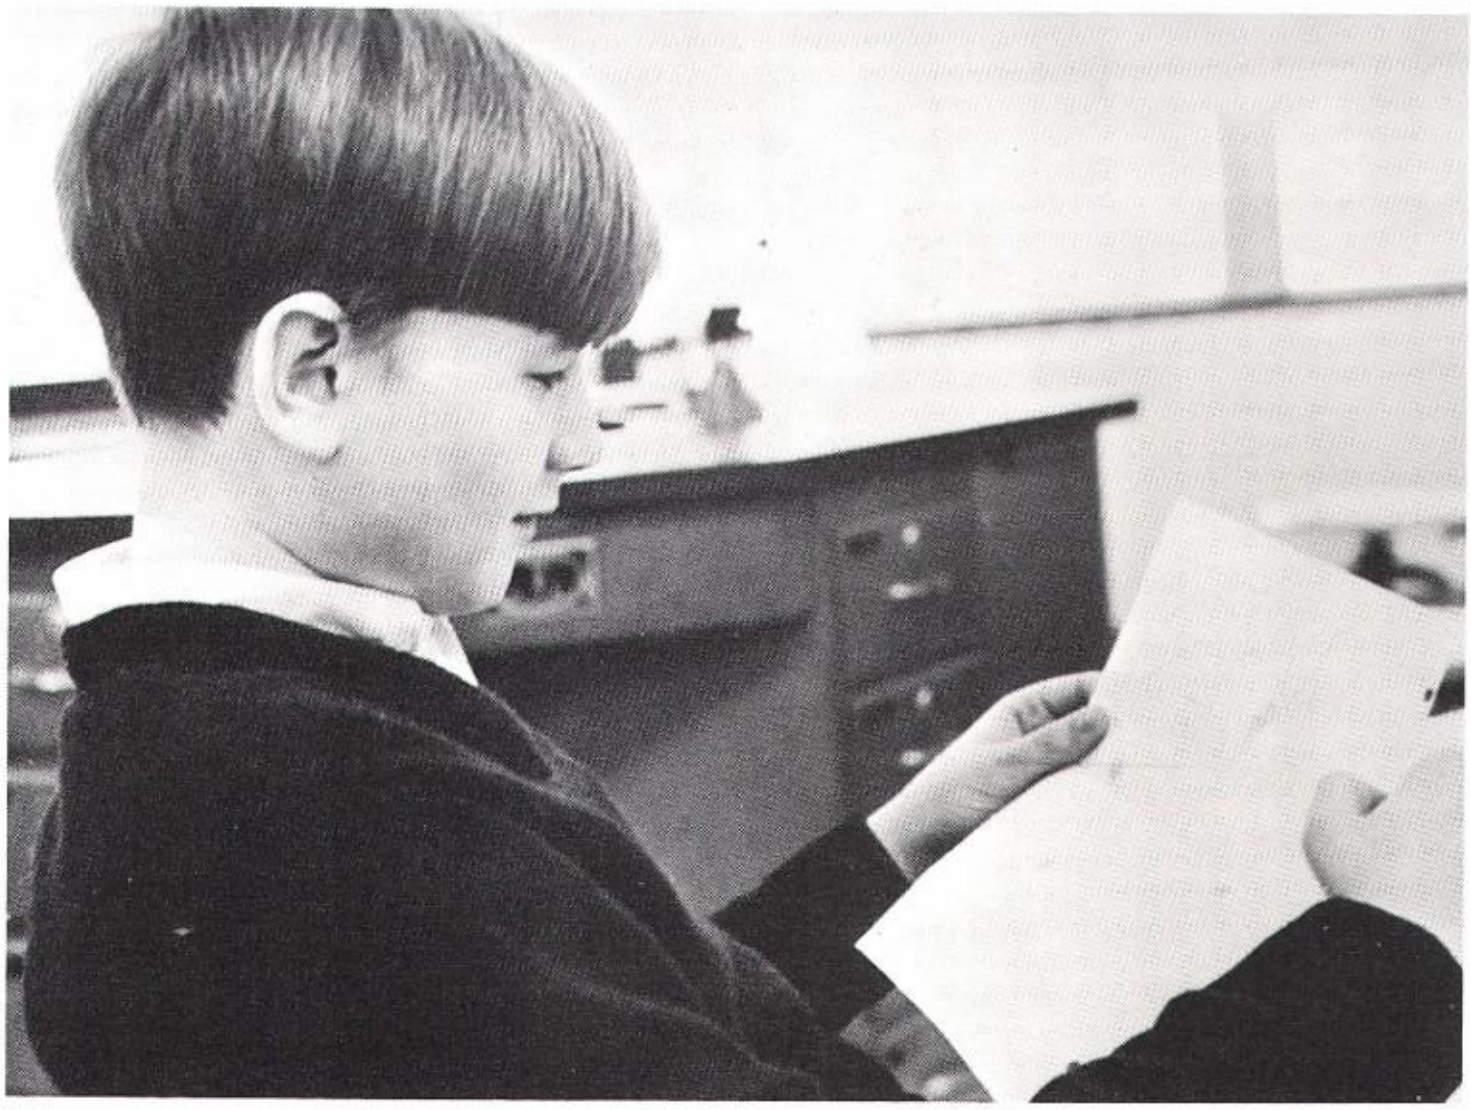
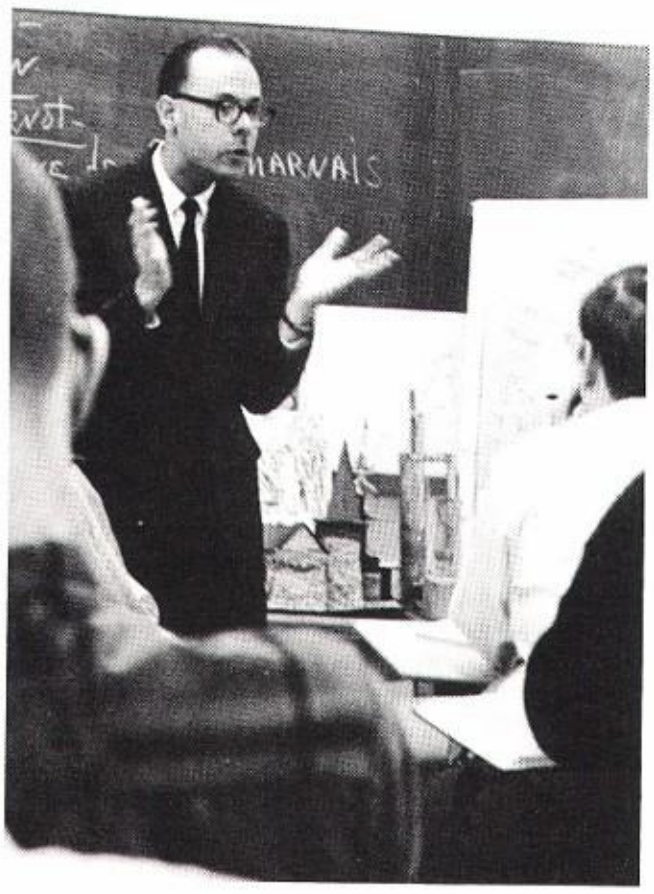
Held for the second year at Reveille Methodist Church on Cary Street, the commencement sermon began at 8:00 p.m. on June 2, 1968. The Reverend Willaim A. Engels, pastor of Cosby Memorial Baptist Church, used the advice, "Take dreams into your realities" as the text for his sermon.

Following three grueling days of exams, seniors reported to MHS early Friday morning for the class picture, graduation practice, and make-up exams. For the first time, plans called for commencement exercises to be held at the school. Adapting Lancer Stadium for this program presented a number of problems with seating and acoustics. A stage for speakers and officers was constructed. Seniors were seated in a semi-circle around this stage. Some guests were seated in the stands, while others stood.

A thirty minute band concert preceded the commencement exercises. At eight p.m. the white and blue robed seniors filed into Lancer Stadium to Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance." Tim Rash, class president, welcomed guests and introduced the speakers. At the conclusion of his remarks Tim gave the class this advice, "Be young, be foolish, but be happy." The five speakers, honored for the highest academic rank in the class, used Samuel Ullman's quote. "Youth is not a time of life; it is a state of mind. We grow old by deserting our ideals. You are as young as your faith, as old as your doubts; as young as your self-confidence, as old as your fear; as young as your hope, as old as your despair" as the subject for their addresses. The five speakers, by rank, were Danny Holt, Judy Self, Debbie Detweiler, Gay Snead, and Mike Rose. After the A Cappella Choir and the Lance Singers sang, those seniors receiving scholarships were recognized. Diplomas were presented by Mr. Edward T. Jones who shook the hands of the 217 graduates. Commencement exercises were concluded by the singing of the alma mater and the recessional.







Students Must Decide Which Road To Follow

When students are presented with MHS's wide subject range, they often wonder which road they should follow. With the aid of the guidance counselors, each student makes his plans for his years at MHS. These plans include both required and elective classes. As Lancers attend classes, they meet many teachers who strive to tell the students that academic preparation and experimentation are the roads to new knowledge.

Office Devotes Valuable Time To Run School Well

Mr. Jones and Mr. Gobble talk with the representative from Herff-Jones concerning the procedure of filling out forms for senior invitations.

Coordination of all school activities is the main duty of the administration and staff. Mr. Edward T. Jones, principal, serves as the head of the school. Aiding him is new assistant principal, Mr. Don Gobble. He works mainly with attendance and disciplinary actions.

The two secretaries work closely together to carry out the smaller details so that the school can be run effectively. Mrs. Francine Daniels, bookkeeper, and Mrs. Louise Hamrick share the burdens of the principals and lighten the load of the teachers.

Adjoining the office is the clinic. The dismissal and admittance of the students are the major duties that it performs. Teachers, during their free period, look after the clinic and tend to the sick students.

Mr. Jones takes time out from his busy morning to drink a cup of coffee. Office members frequently visit the coffee pot in the supply room.

Mrs. Daniels and Mrs. Hamrick, the office secretaries, take time out to chat, after a typically busy day.

Mr. Jones, principal, is the busiest man at Manchester. Many times during the day a line of impatient teachers and students can be seen at his door.

Mrs. Hamrick checks the files of student records to find information concerning a certain student.

Mr. Gobble, Manchester's new assistant principal, is often seen helping students with problems. His office door is always open for those who seek his help.

Guidance And Library Serve As Aid To Pupils

With the arrival of new books, the librarians were kept busy filing them. The increase of students demanded an abundant supply of books and research materials in the library.

Starting this year, space was needed to accommodate the study halls. The only appropriate place was the library. With the study halls in the library, the students came to realize the opportunities that existed in the new location. This change provided a studious atmosphere and the use of the library's facilities for a longer period of time.

During the study halls, many students visited the guidance office. The Guidance Department consists of three counselors who are kept busy making and changing students' schedules.

The guidance counselors always have their doors open to students with problems about the future and about schedules. They also fill in college transcripts for the students and aid them in choosing a suitable college.

Workers Give Many Years Of Service To MHS

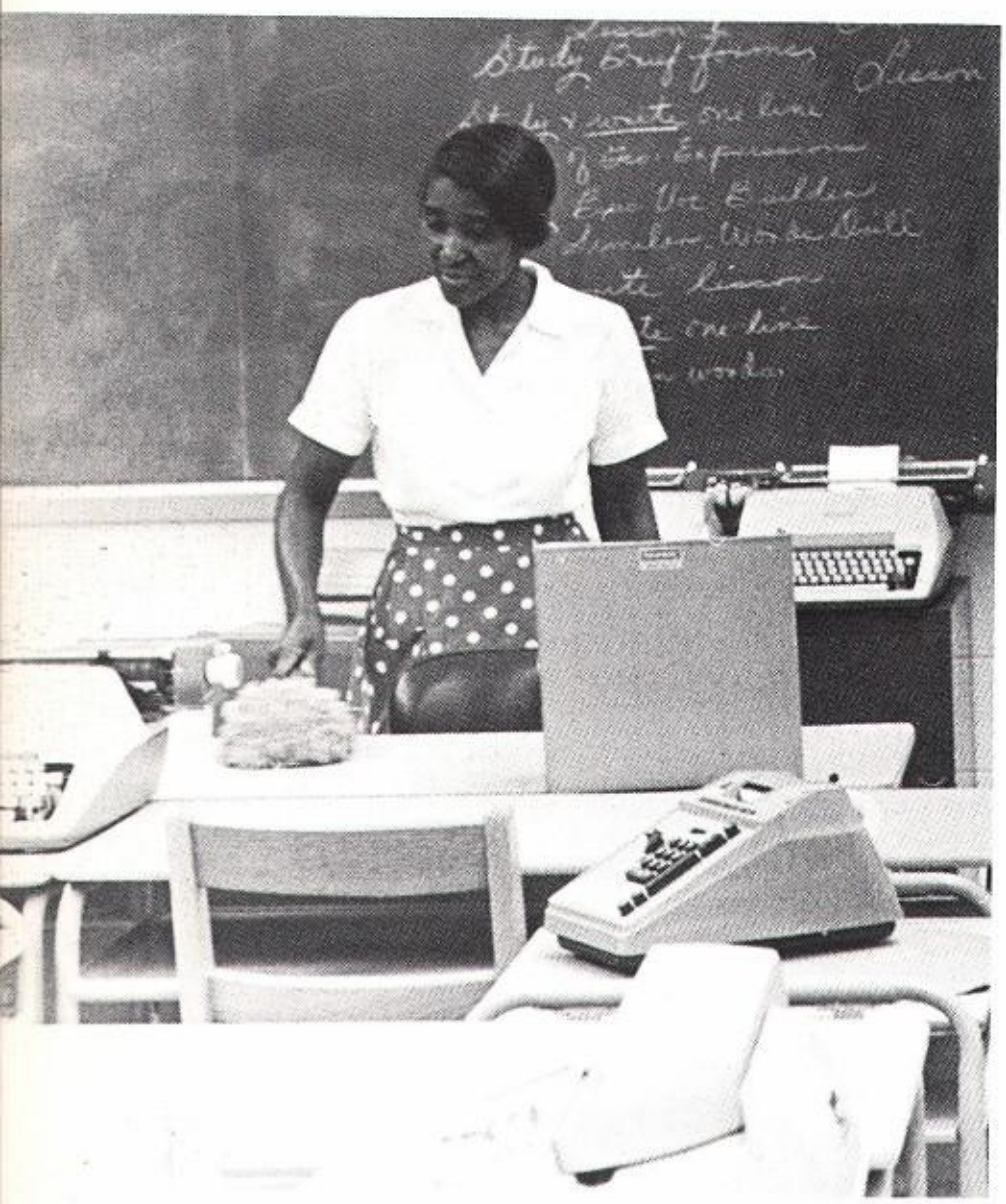
Mrs. Ethel Davis can be seen every day at the end of the lunch line taking up money. Working the cash register is one of the many duties of the cafeteria ladies.

Always endeavoring to keep the halls of Manchester spotless, the maintenance staff worked diligently every day. Dusting the lockers, cleaning the windows, and sweeping the floors were only a few of the duties that they carried out.

The cafeteria staff planned daily luncheons. Starting early each morning, the ladies cooked enough food for all students. Then this group sold milk and ice cream to the students during each lunch period, and they cleaned the dishes for use on the following day.

Special dinners were held before Thanksgiving and Christmas. The menu was changed to include turkey, dressing, and the seasonal fancy.

Whenever a banquet was held, the cooking staff was called upon to feed and serve the participants. These activities included the Football, Basketball, and Tri-language Banquets.



Nanny Holloway dusts the business equipment in the classroom in the afternoon after school.

Josh Shepperson, custodian, and Mrs. Shepperson pause for a moment after a typically busy day. Many times during the school day the "janitor bell" rings as a summons to Josh from the office.

Mrs. Shelton, Mrs. Holmes, Mrs. Whitt, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Fergueson, Mrs. Chandler, and Mrs. Whitt help prepare meals for the entire student body.

Inez Brown, who has been at Manchester almost twenty-five years, spends most of her time working at MHS.

Arlene Turner, Marie Turner, Ella Anderson, and Nanny Holloway work after school each day to help keep MHS neat and clean.

The arrival of two sets of English books to the English Department provided each student with a Grammar and a Literature book for the entire year. This supply of books allowed each teacher to supplement the course of study with the use of both books simultaneously.

In the speech class, the students practiced public speaking. They were also permitted to deliver the morning announcements over the public address system.

Trying to create organized thinking and forceful writing, the English Department encouraged the teachers to experiment with any new methods of teaching. The outcome developed into the senior classes studying modern novels and several other classes acting out the characters' roles in the stories they were studying.

New Aural–Oral Methods Emphasized In Teaching

A part of the foreign language program was learning by the new aural-oral method. Under this program, students learned to listen, speak, and think in a second language without having to translate into English.

Spanish books were supplemented by pictures and charts. As extra classroom projects, the study of culture was encouraged with aid from slides, filmstrips, and lectures.

French classes were conducted almost entirely en-français. The students learned to speak and understand the everyday French language. A study of French culture was also emphasized.

Although some aural-oral methods were used in the Latin classes, the older method of learning was stressed. Students became cognizant of and appreciated the literary heritage handed down to the western world by studying great works in their original Latin form.

Taped Lectures Begin New Method Of Teaching

To make the science classes more interesting, taped lectures were used by teachers in creating a new and more appealing approach to the study of science. With the aid of the audio-visual equipment, several lectures, including those on the anatomy of certain plants and animals, were used in the biology classes.

The chemistry classes acquired new aprons and goggles for the protection of the student, while the biology classes have the use of a new sterescope.

Group teaching was the newest technique instituted by the advanced science class for accelerated seniors. This method helped to make the class more enjoyable for the student.

New Library And Equipment Aid Math Department

Each year the Math Department introduces several new ways in which to help students with their work. This year a math library was available to students who wished to look up any information concerning mathematics.

New instruments acquired for this year were a projector filmstrip for aid in the classroom, and a mathematics typewriter for making mimeographed tests and other work easier to read.

By trying to help struggling students, the teachers carried out major interest in giving individual help. If there was not enough time during class to satisfy individual needs, the students were able to get extra help during activities period or after school.

Each year the Business Department gives awards to the outstanding business student, the best typist of the year, and the best shorthand student.

ETV Enhances Teaching Methods In Social Studies

Extensive use of educational television created greater opportunities in the Social Studies Department. Closed circuit and the local educational television provided additional teaching methods from those of the regular class. For the first time, geography and current events were shown to the classes via television.

The teachers also made use of available community resources. This provided better understanding for the student and presented instructional materials for the teacher.

Field trips to the General Assembly were taken by the government classes while the geography classes studied maps and landmarks. World history classes examined the past as they prepared for facing the future.

Seniors Given Special Class In Home Economics

Emphasis was placed on the motto, "Individuality counts," in the Home Economics Department. Every month the Home Economic teachers helped the girls with a program centered around this topic.

New to the curriculum was a Senior Home Economic class. This was designed to prepare the girl who will be married after graduation or who will work and live away from home for basic home and economic care.

Several full course meals prepared by the Home Economic girls were served to their invited guests. This gave them experience in cooking and an outsider's opinion on their progress.

Varied skills are acquired by the girls who take Home Economics. Cooking, serving, nutrition, and interior decorating are only a few subjects which they learn in the art of homemaking.

Music Department Creates Entertainment Programs

The Music Department is active in producing major entertainment programs and also serves to create an interest in instrumental and vocal music.

Those students playing musical instruments compose the Varsity and JV Bands. The JV Band provides a chance for the students to gain experience before becoming a member of the Varsity Band. As a part of the Varsity Band, the students give performances and concerts, and they gain knowledge as they learn the history of the music they play.

The choruses make up the vocal section of the Music Department. The A Capella Choir, consisting of boys and girls, and the Lance Singers, composed of girls only, sing at festivals, concerts, and local churches.

Department Expands By Adding New Equipment

With the use of the excellent athletic equipment provided by the Physical Education Department, students learned the skills that contribute to strong physical development. A keen interest was developed for physical education by the new intramural activities. These activities included competition in the fields of basketball, ping pong, volleyball, chess, checkers, and horseshoes.

A newly acquired trampoline accompanies the balance beams and the parallel bars by helping to develop and strengthen the muscles.

The Driver Training Course gives additional practice for those students interested in driving. This year two representatives were sent to the County Roadeo. Both received first place in their division.

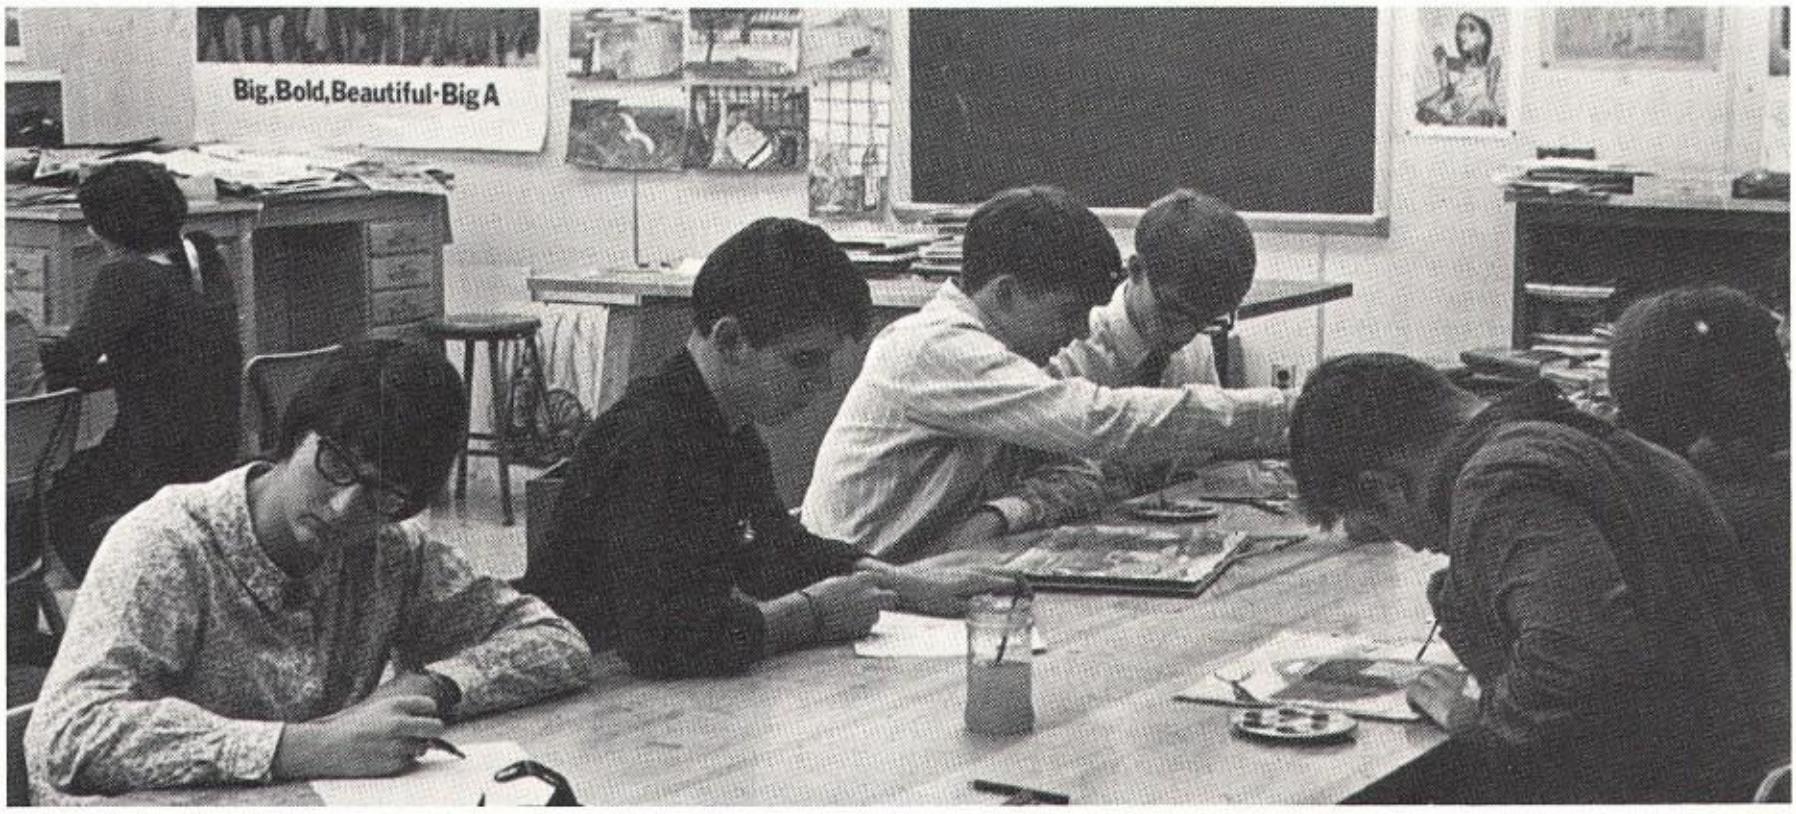
Art Department Stresses Creativity Of Individual

The Art Department wishes to develop individual talent and skill in the field of art. In order to accomplish this, the classes were allowed to experiment with pencil drawings and those in charcoal. Since there are mosaics in the halls, the students acquired a special interest when they were allowed to create their own designs with the mosaic tiles.

Working with pastels or colored chalk developed brighter and gayer pictures. Using pastels led the students to water painting and working with crayons. After this was completed, moulding with clay and constructing pottery provided a change from the regular drawing schedule.

In addition to studio art, the art teachers stressed art history. Much time was taken in research to learn about artists' lives and paintings.



Art students show their creativity by painting scenes with water colors. Pastels, crayons, and water colors are used to paint brighter and gayer pictures. Select paintings are displayed for other students to enjoy and study.

Mr. Self gives individual help to his students in mechanical drawing class. This year a new class has begun for those students interested in architectural drawing. This class is a full two periods long.

The Industrial Arts Department made a strong effort to improve the students' attitudes toward their work and safety. Increasing their skill in woodworking and metal-working produces the necessary knowledge for creating quality work. Learning to draw house plans, drafting, designing, and sketching are important parts of the training that the students receive. The second year classes are taught the proper usage and care of power equipment. In addition to architectural designing and construction, the mechanical arts students prepare for future work in the industrial field.

ICT, VOT Train Students For Future Occupations

The Industrial Co-operative Training program is a special course for those students who are being trained in a variety of vocational fields. These students attend school for the first half of the day and work during the afternoon. Some of the occupations that they study include beauticians, draftsmen, cashiers, and dental secretaries.

Vocational Office Training provides additional practice for the girls at MHS who intend to devote their time to secretarial work. Teaching the students the proper way to run office machines and to care for them are the objectives of the VOT program. During the girls' free period, some of them helped with the school's office work and gained valuable experience in their field.

Humanities Room Set Up In Library For Students

The study of the search for man's freedom is the basic aim of the Humanities Department. This department has the distinction of being the only accredited course of its kind in the state. The four teachers are new to the course which includes studies in music, history, art, religion, literature, and philosophy.

Adjoining the library is a small room known as the Humanities room. This room provides a place for individual study, somewhere for the students to listen to the taped lectures, and an uninterrupted area to do the necessary additional reading.

Only juniors and seniors are allowed to take Humanities. Then the student must have a teacher's recommendation.

Jim Hayes and Mary Burns study a picture of Eros, the Greek God of Love, in the Humanities study room as they prepare for a class lecture.

Each Class Travels Road To Graduation

Underclassmen discover that MHS offers many choices. Lancers spend much of their freshmen and sophomore years deciding which roads to travel. Junior and Senior Class members find that they are closer to the road of graduation. Through participation in an organized class, juniors and seniors work to produce class projects and the prom. Each class's endeavors take that group a little further along the road to graduation.

New Privileges, Bermuda Day, Senior Building Granted

Senior status meant special privileges for the class of '68. A year-long privilege was "ownership" of the Senior Building, formerly known as the square building. Another first was Bermuda Day; on May 31 the entire class was permitted to wear bermuda shorts to school. Because exams were only a few days away, the seniors proved that they could still study even though a picnic atmosphere prevailed.

Many of the year's activities centered around preparation for graduation. During January class members met at school one night to order announcements, notes, and calling cards and to be measured for caps and gowns. The arrival of announcements was greeted by the chaotic exchange of calling cards. Commencement exercises on June 7 climaxed the year's events for members of the Senior Class.

Class Plans To Present Junior–Senior Prom In May

Junior Class members broke tradition this fall as they ordered class rings of a new design. These rings, ordered in September and received in December, featured a class crest in the class colors, red, white, and blue. Early in the fall the class members paid their dues to help finance the class project and the prom. The class project, held on September 30, was a powder-puff football game between the Junior Class girls and the Senior Class girls. Plans for the prom on May 18 began to formulate early in the year under the direction of the Junior Executive Council and the class officers. The year's activities for the Junior Class were concluded with the election of officers to lead the class in '69.

Boys Selected To Serve As Junior Marshalls

The title of Junior Marshall was bestowed on eight juniors. The students who received this honor are the top eight in the junior class. Included in their duties are ushering at all the senior activities, such as the Baccalaureate service, graduation, banquet, and other important school functions.

In the past, MHS has limited this privilege to girls only. After much discussion, the faculty decided to open this opportunity to the eight junior students with the highest scholastic average, whether they be girls or boys.

This change now presents a challenge to all juniors, both boys and girls, to strive for scholastic attainment.

Sophomores Participate In Lancer Activities

Members of the class of '70 found their sophomore year marked by participation in all phases of school life. Sophomores formed the backbone of the junior varsity teams. Club membership was a new experience for many sophomores. Sophomores supported school activities such as the magazine campaign, pep rallies, and all sports events. Spring tryouts found many class members preparing to assume positions of school leadership. Some won positions on Lancerette, majorette, or cheerleading squads. New members for the publications staffs were picked from the Sophomore class. The sophomores met in March to discuss the selection of their class rings. At this meeting the class decided to order the traditional rings next fall. Sophomores concluded the year's activities by electing officers to lead the class through their junior year.

Freshmen Soon Adjust To Environment At MHS

During their first year at MHS, freshmen began the process of adjustment to high school life. Student Orientation Day, held before the opening of school in September, helped acquaint the new students with the school plant and with many school activities. Freshmen found that while high school offers greater freedom, it also requires that students accept more responsibilities. At the freshmen adjusted to all phases of school life, they discovered that in their freshmen year they establish the pattern for their remaining years at MHS.

Activities Often Prove Road To Achievement

As Lancers accept the responsibilities of leadership and participation in extracurricular activities, they are preparing to travel the roads of the future. Students are challenged by planning the activities of the school's clubs. Within each organization are opportunities for both personal and group accomplishments. The opportunities for achievement presented by activities open the road of success to all Lancers.

The Student Cooperative Association planned Orientation Day, at which time the Lancer Life, the Honor Code, and the SCA's activities were explained to the new students. For the first week of school, the SCA sold student identification cards which allowed student discount prices at most school functions and included a subscription to the school newspaper. New handbooks were also given to each student so that they might become acquainted with student life at MHS.

The magazine drive was the main source of income for the SCA. Every club treasury was provided with funds from the SCA treasury.

The SCA sponsored several dances, including a sock hop during the football season, the Homecoming Dance, and the Spring Dance. The Homecoming Dance, "Lancer-delic Explosion", was the first SCA-sponsored dance to include decorations.

Four full-length feature movies were shown this year. There were also guest speakers who spoke at assemblies, among these were Dr. Donald Lawson of Randolph-Macon College who spoke on "the Impossible Dream", Mr. L. Stein of MCV who talked about drugs, and Mr. L. Passage who requested that MHS students "stand for something".

NHS Taps Five Seniors, Fifteen Juniors

The National Honor Society held its tapping ceremony for new members in November. As soon as they were initiated, active work was begun on Alumni Night, co-sponsored by NHS and Quill and Scroll. This night was set aside for MHS graduates to return to their alma mater and talk to interested students about the college they attend.

At Christmas the Honor Society members decorated the Christmas tree beside the office. Another service performed by members was conducting a tutoring service.

In addition to these activities, two receptions were held. One was to honor the new Society members, and the other was for the seniors and their parents. At this time the seniors received their gold cords to wear during all graduation activities.

Senior Executive Council Presents "Yuletide Ride"

Representatives from each senior homeroom and the Senior Class officers form the Senior Executive Council. The new sponsor for the Senior Class was Mrs. Evamon Green who was assisted by Mr. Donald Smith.

Supervision of the class's projects and activities was the main duty of the Senior Executive Council. After plans were discussed in council meetings, they were presented to the Senior Class for approval.

The committees and the council planned the class projects, the Powder-Puff Football Game and the Christmas Dance, "Yuletide Ride".

Climaxing the senior year and the council's activities were the presentation of the class gift, the Senior Class Banquet, Baccalaureate, and Graduation.

Jr. Executive Council Plans Project; Presents Prom

Organizing the Class of '69 began in the spring of 1967 when Junior Class officers were elected. The next step in the organization of the class was the election of the Junior Executive Council Representatives. Each junior homeroom was allowed one delegate to present its opinions of the class's activities. The executive council and the rest of the Junior Class worked with the seniors on the joint class project, the Powder-Puff Football Game and Victory Dance. The council's biggest project was the supervision, planning, and production of the prom. Working closely with the prom committees, the council and class presented the Junior-Senior Prom in May.

Honor Council Stresses Importance Of Honesty

With the beginning of this year, the Honor Council began conducting regularly scheduled meetings. Annual elections were held in October to fill the eleven member council.

There are two representatives from each class with a lower house chairman, an upperhouse chairman, and an overall chairman.

The Honor Council presented a skit which demonstrated that stealing accomplishes nothing and that honesty is most important.

The members also made posters encouraging people to be honest with themselves and others.

FTA Sponsors Teacher Appreciation Week

The Future Teachers of America are eager to improve the relationship between the students and faculty. The members also show deep interest in teaching as a profession.

Several times throughout the year, the Future Teachers of America held teas for the teachers. They also served donuts for faculty members on the parent-teachers conference days and on work days.

Keeping their schedule filled, the Future Teachers of America sponsored Teacher Appreciation Week and National Education Week. A visit to a neighboring college and a social held for the members of the club concluded the year's activities.

FBLA Assists Teachers With Various Duties

The Future Business Leaders of America attended the Regional Convention at John Marshall High School. The Manchester Representative, Linda Wilkins, who won the title Miss FBLA, represented the club in the stat convention.

The club set aside one week to help the teachers at MHS. During this week the club members performed odd jobs for any teacher such as running errands or typing papers. Christmas cards were sent by the FBLA to soldiers in Viet Nam. The club also toured the career training Institute in Richmond.

Mother–Daughter Banquet, Project Of FHA

Promoting interest in efficient housekeeping was only one of the many functions of the Future Homemakers of America. In the fall the club began its activities with a tea to welcome the teachers to MHS. Club members, all of whom have studied home economics for at least one year, attended fall and spring Federation Meetings where they met other Future Homemakers in the country.

During FHA Week posters and bulletin board displays were used to make other students more appreciative of the FHA and its purpose, while flower arrangements, provided by FHA members, added an outdoor freshness to the usually businesslike atmosphere of the school office.

Memoir, Product Of Long Hours And Hard Work

Gathering each day for one hour during the assigned fifth period, the yearbook staff worked steadily to organize the year's activities into a book. Staff members stayed busy drawing layouts, writing copy, and developing and printing many of their own pictures.

This year a new sales approach was presented at a special assembly. The need for each student to purchase a yearbook was stressed in a skit written and performed by the senior staff. Then a movie, "The Memory Years," was shown to explain the purpose of a yearbook.

The year was highlighted at the annual Publications Dance with the announcement of the new junior staff members and the senior staff positions.

Several trips were taken by the staffs. In the fall the senior staff toured American Publishing Company in Maryland. Then in the spring the junior staff members attended the SIPA Convention in Lexington and the Virginia Yearbook Forum.

Communique Gets Scoop On Senior Superlatives

Working diligently to publish the school's newspaper, the Communique staff remained alert for area news and school happenings. The editorials emphasized issues which concerned the student body and provided thought-provoking questions.

Each senior staff member assisted a junior member with the position that he wished to achieve. In this way, the younger journalists became acquainted with writing stories or preparing layouts for his particular section. Every junior staff member was required to take journalism in his course of study. This gave him some background in newspaper work.

Several trips were taken by the staffs. In the fall, members had the opportunity to attend the Newspaper Clinic at the University of Richmond, in the winter reporters visited the General Assembly where they interviewed Representative J. S. Hanson of Chesterfield, and in the spring three junior members of the staff represented the Communique at the SIPA Convention in Lexington.

Quill And Scroll Presents Publications Dance "Love Makes The World Go 'Round"

At the homecoming game Quill and Scroll members found that they must rush to effectively conduct the halftime festivities. As sponsors of the halftime activities, Quill and Scroll members were responsible for the supervision of the parade and the crowning of the queen, and for the sale of flowers.

The honorary journalistic society co-hosted Alumni Night in December. At this time MHS graduates returned to talk about their colleges to Lancers who were interested in these schools. Following the discussion sessions, Quill and Scroll served refreshments to all participants and guests.

"Love Makes the World Go 'Round" was selected by the club members as the theme of the annual publications dance. Held in March, the highlight of the semiformal evening was the announcement of the 1969 publications' staffs and Lanny, who is sponsored and selected by Quill and Scroll.

A May banquet was held at Meadowbrook Restaurant for all members of publications' staffs. At this banquet the Communique and Memoir staffs awarded silver bowls to Mildred Arthur and Jackie York who were selected as the ones who contributed the most to the success of the publications.

The Lancer Spirit Boosters worked hard to promote team work and good sportsmanship in all phases of school activities. Through the determined efforts of the student body and the club members, a successful and varied year was completed. Among the projects were chartering buses to out-of-town sport's events, making posters to encourage student support, and sitting as a group at the pep rallies.

Completing the agenda of the club's activities was the presentation of certificates to those who displayed outstanding sportsmanship during each athletic season.

French Club Publishes Newspaper, Improves Library, Holds Initiation

Publication of the French Club newspaper, Le Spectre, was continued this year and has now become one of the regular projects of the club. Additional books were contributed to the French library. Many students used these books as references for term papers and themes.

Programs presented at meetings throughout the year included programs on French music and French government. After invitations were given to outstanding French students, an initiation program was held in the school cafeteria. The entertainment consisted of a skit about American tourists in France and a vocal version of the popular song "L'Amour est Bleu."

Decorating the cafeteria for the Tri-Language Banquet was the responsibility of the French Club. The theme of the banquet was "Language: Gateway to Understanding." Decorations included small flags representing the French, Spanish, and Roman domains.

Spanish Club Is Host For Area Convention

The Spanish Club began the year with the adoption of a Cuban boy, Kenny Newton. He visited club meetings and became acquainted with the Spanish speaking students. Acting as host for the convention of Spanish students from Richmond area high schools, the Manchester Spanish Club discovered and shared unique ideas and projects with neighboring schools. This club also helped sponsor the Tri-Language Banquet. Other activities included the publication of the first Spanish newspaper, Mucho Toro, conducting a Spanish tutoring service, and the formation of the Spanish honor roll.

Slaves At Latin Banquet Become New Members

Members of the Junior Classical League transformed the cafeteria into a Roman forum to hold the traditional Latin Club Banquet. The Boys donned the togas; the girls' apparel consisted of gaily flowing stolas and pallas with an abundance of jewelry. The senators were distinguished by their purple-trimmed outfits and laurel wreath crowns.

Slaves, who were being initiated into the club, were bought and sold. For good slaves the prices rose as high as thirty cents. The slaves were bound by chains which were removed when they were installed as members. Dancing girls and gladiatorial fighters provided entertainment. The banquet was concluded with a ceremonial sacrifice when the slaves became "Roman citizens."

As an altruistic project, toy chests were made for crippled children. Delegates attended the State Latin Convention at the University of Virginia. The Latin Club also worked in connection with the French and Spanish Clubs on the Tri-Language Banquet. Latin students were sent to the Latin Tournament in April to compete for individual and school recognition.

The members of the Hi-Y worked to promote clean speech, clean living, and high moral character throughout the year. To achieve the goal of helping others, they collected comic books and paperback books for the patients at McGuire Veterans Hospital and cleaned the YMCA Camp Thunderbird before use in the summer. Delegates were sent to the Model General Assembly in Richmond, and the Hi-Y and sweetheart worshipped at local churches. The MHS Hi-Y competed with other Hi-Y's in basketball. Finishing the season with a 16–0 record, the club carried the district championship for the second consecutive year.

Y–Teens Elect Chalkley Sweetheart; Adopt Boy

Greg Shiflett was once again the child chosen from the Methodist Children's Home to be sponsored by the Senior Y-Teens. These girls provided him and his cabin with Christmas presents and parties. He also went to several basketball games with Y-Teen members.

Each month the Y-Teens conducted service projects. These always included helping various civic organizations such as the Red Cross or the Bainbridge Street Center. In keeping with their Christian aims, the Senior Y-Teens went as a group to worship together in some of the area churches. In addition to helping others, the Y-Teens took time in the spring to join the Hi-Y at a picnic.

Junior Y–Teens Elect Carl Wood Sweetheart

The Junior Y-Teens annually sponsor a panel discussion by Y-Teen and Hi-Y members about dating. The girls held several parties for the children at the Bainbridge Street Center. A variety of programs were presented at club meetings. One program featured Mr. C. J. Hudson who spoke about extra sensory perception; Mrs. Randy Langford demonstrated make-up; the Christmas program included a demonstration of Christmas package wrapping. For the first time, the Junior Y-Teens voted to have a sweetheart. This honor was bestowed upon Carl Wood.

Art Club Promotes Interest In Many Subjects

Increasing the students' interest in the art world was the major objective of the Art Club. To complete this goal, the Art Club decided to gain the students' support by getting their attention. The club's forty foot poster of the Lancer Roadrunner, placed in the gym for basketball games, was certainly an eye-catcher. The Art Club also sponsored an art festival. During this festival any student could paint or draw a picture and have it displayed in the art window.

Manchester's Drama Club gained a new name as it became known as the Triptych Players. This name is derived from a Greek word describing a form of scenery containing three different units of painting. Thus, the club has a threefold purpose; to educate, to entertain, and to enrich.

The club sponsored one-act plays in which Triptych members could perform.

They also presented a one-act play "Reaction to Chaos" at the District Drama Festival in Hopewell where it received a superior rating. The cast traveled to the state 1-A Drama Festival in Charlottesville where the actors received constructive criticism.

The club members sold Triptych boosters which helped finance the operetta "110 in the Shade." As a side trip, the group attended a performance of the "Glass Menagerie" at the Swift Creek Mill Playhouse.

Science Club Sponsors Science Fair

Sponsoring the Science Fair was the major event on the Science Club's Calendar. Students submitted projects and reports which were put on display. When a guest visited the science classes, he was asked to speak to the Science Club, thus programs consisted of lectures by outside chemists, scientists, and researchists.

A tea was held in honor of the Science Department. This tea was sponsored by the Science Club for those teachers whose field is one of the sciences. Members of the club made visits to the Mosque to attend lectures and to the University of Virginia as delegates to the Science and Humanities Symposium.

Monogram Club Sponsors

Whenever a person drives to a home football game, he is directed to his parking space by a member of the Monogram Club. These boys also watch the entrance to see that only authorized people enter the pass gate.

During the year, two clean-up campaigns were conducted. These drives encouraged the students to keep the school neat and tidy. For one week the members scouted the school grounds during activities period and removed trash from the buildings.

Money-raising projects included sponsoring the faculty–WGOE basketball game and a sockhop and selling drinks and candy at the home basketball games. The profit from these projects helped the club to purchase jackets for the senior club members, jackets for the baseball team, and the championship banner for the basketball team.

Varsity Club Sponsors, Wins Student–Faculty Game

The Varsity Club consists of girls who have lettered in a sport. Their activities are centered around the girl's athletic world. The club bought jackets for the basketball team. The members also helped the Athletic Association with the candy and light bulb sales. Their main project was the Student-Faculty basketball game, which the students won 16–14. Trophies were given to the Most Valuable Player in the girl's varsity sports and to those senior girls who had lettered twice in two sports or three times in one sport. The trophies were given at the Varsity Club dinner.

VICA Sponsors Employer–Employee Banquet

The Vocational Industrial Clubs of America is often called VICA. Members of the club participated in the local district meeting held at Meadowbrook High School and the regional convention held at Virginia Beach. The state convention was conducted later in the year at Natural Bridge. The Employer-Employee Banquet was planned for the student. The club took first prize in the Regional Convention, and it ranked second in receiving trophies at the District Convention. Because MHS was first place winner at the Regional Convention, a student represented VICA at the State Convention in Natural Bridge.

A Cappella Choir Sings At Hanover Boys' School

Among the A Cappella Choir's many presentations were performances at Central Baptist Church at Thanksgiving, Hanover Boys' School, and the District "C" meeting. On Easter morning the A Cappella Choir, as a part of the combined choirs, gathered at McGuire Veterans Administration Hospital to sing for the annual sunrise service.

Members of the mixed chorus learn the music for their performances during class sessions each day during second period. The A Cappella Choir was represented by about twenty members at the All-Regional Chorus. Four members of the choir and three alternates were selected to participate in All-State Chorus. Other members of the choir participated in the Chorus Festival in March and helped present the Spring Concert in April.

Lance Singers Compete In District Festival

Lance Singers, the all-girl chorus, sang several times at neighboring churches. Special music was prepared by these girls to sing at Ramsey Memorial Methodist and Central Baptist Churches. In addition to these programs, the Lance Singers performed at Baccalaureate and Graduation.

Many of the girls had an opportunity to sing in the chorus and help with the production of the operetta, 110 in the Shade. During February the Lance Singers accompanied A Cappella Choir to sing for the boys at Hanover Boys School. Preparations were then being made for learning the music to be sung at the Chorus Festival, Spring Concert, and the Easter Sunrise Service.

Halftime Shows Illustrate Varsity Band's Skills

Creating interest in instrumental music was the main objective of the MHS Varsity Band. Varied activities boosted enthusiasm among band members as well as students outside the music department. To promote a more fervent desire for musical excellence, Mr. H. M. Lowry visited the band to give advice on and a demonstration of more professional clarinet playing. The varsity band performed in many parades and participated in the Band Day in Charlottesville.

In March, after months of rehearsing, the band received an excellent rating at festival, and in April, the spring concert was held. Playing the "Halleluia Chorus" at McGuire Veterans Hospital was one of the highlights of the year. As a farewell to the seniors, the band presented a graduation concert.

JV Band Prepares Music For MHS Spring Concert

In striving for better musicianship, learning musical terms and basic theory became a major part of the program in JV Band this year. Under the direction of Mr. Owen Farney, students learned terms that would be helpful in music interpretation. Frequent testing on these words insured diligent study by the students.

As a performing group, the JV Band rehearsed daily in preparation for the band festival held in March. After receiving an honor rating at the festival, the band began practicing selections used in the spring concert. The experience gained in JV Band performances were helpful in preparing these band members for positions in Varsity Band.

JV Twirlers Support Lancers' Football Teams

The Junior Varsity Majorettes supported all JV team functions and pep rallies. The squad, consisting of seven underclass girls, performed at several of the varsity football games during timeouts and halftime. By serving on the Junior Varsity Squad, the girls gained experience and practice in working with the baton. This extra work helped prepare many of the squad members for the next step to varsity majorette. The girls also attended the spring picnic which was sponsored by the varsity majorettes.

Majorettes Place First In Chester Parade

The five members of the varsity majorette squad have contributed much to the spirit and atmosphere of school events and pep rallies. They have participated in the Chester Volunteer Fire Department Parade and won first place for "Best Performing Majorettes". They also represented MHS in the Tobacco Festival Parade, Thalhimers Toy Parade, Band Day at Charlottesville, and the Hull Street Parade.

The squad appeared at every football game and helped present colorful half-time entertainment by showing their skill in twirling fire batons.

Serving in her first year as the majorettes' mascot, seven year old Lisa Messer took part in all of the squad's activities throughout the year. The varsity majorette squad held surprise social for their sponsor, Miss Linda Vess, who left at the end of the year. At the conclusion of the year, an annual spring picnic was held to welcome the new squad members.

The Lancerettes, a group of seven girls who have excelled in marching, parade in front of the Varsity Band. Each girl wears one letter of the school nickname, Lancers, on her uniform. These girls perform marching and dance routines to the band's music.

Representing MHS in Thalhimer's Toy Parade and the Chesterfield County Fair parade, the Lancerettes preceded the Varsity Band as they displayed their new routines. They also went to Charlottesville and Participated in the University of Virginia Band Day.

Throughout the basketball season, the Lancerettes wore their blue-lettered jumpers and sat together at all home games.

Athletes Discover That Practice, Skill, Desire Are Road To Success

Competition demands much from athletes. Adequate physical training for skill development requires grueling practice sessions. Teamwork is emphasized as the athletes learn the values of both the stars and the bench. School spirit and sportsmanship are developed as each team endeavors to win for MHS. The road to a successful season is found by striving for improvement.

Action began in the Lancer Stadium on September 8, when the kick-off against George Wythe officially started the 1967 football season. Even though the Lancers lost their first game and also the game with Petersburg, they regained their strength and defeated Prince George for their first win.

The football team had few returning lettermen, and the squad was a light team in weight compared to the rest of the district.

Timing was a necessity that the Lancers emphasized. They exercised basic offense and attempted aggressive defensive tactics. Injuries obstructed the progress of the Lancers in many of their games.

The desire and approach of the team members was enthusiastic. They always appeared fresh and returned anxious for the second half of every game. In all the games, the scores were close, and the varsity squad outscored the top two teams, Petersburg and Thomas Dale, in the second half.

In the Meadowbrook game, the Lancers held on to close the game with a tie. This tie gave them the needed boost to spur their final victory over Patrick Henry on November 10, which created a spectacular Homecoming.

Although the JV football season started slowly, they finished with a 1–4–1 record by closing the year with a tie and a win. The JV team had only two starters to return from the previous season. The majority of the team were freshmen who should remain to form a solid JV team for next year. Even though they were hampered with injuries and members graduating to varsity, the squad improved their plays and gained valuable experience.

Along with the MHS coaches, Mr. Gordon Price from Elkhardt Intermediate School assisted in training the team. Fundamentals were emphasized by the coaches while the boys practiced blocking and running. Even though the team had a weak offense, they displayed good defensive tactics.

Coaches Guidon and Price wait with members of the JV team as the referees measure for a first down.

Lancers, Finishing 19–2, Capture District Crown

During the regular season of varsity basketball, the Lancers played sixteen games with a result of sixteen wins and no losses. Five of the seven seniors had played together since their freshman year, and the seven juniors compiled a bench of strong substitutes.

The Lancers broke the 100-point mark four times, and ended the season with an offensive average of 91.2 points. This helped provide a 33.9 point average spread over the opponents. Throughout the season, the Lancers were predicted to be the Central District Champions which they were. Led by team co-captains Paul Edens and Tim Rash, the Lancers worked toward an undefeated year, but they suffered two losses in tournaments. Their 19–2 record is the second best in the school's history.

Cagers Beat Springers, 56–55, In 3 Overtimes

In addition to the regular sixteen games, the Lancers went on to the Central District Tournament where they placed second. They then played in the Regional Tourney held at Randolph-Macon College in Ashland. There they won over Highland Springs in three overtimes. This win placed the team against Hopewell; they were defeated 65–58, which gave them second place in the tournament.

The Varsity Basketball team had many individual standouts. Tim Rash was once again named to the All-Regional, Group I-A, and All State Teams. At the end of the season, his number, 21, was retired and he was named also the Most Valuable Player in the State. Bobby Pearson was named to the All-Regional second team and received an honorable mention on the Group I-A team. Guards Kenny Catlett and Paul Edens played exceptionally well defensively. They were supported by Mike Rose, Jon Harris, and Tommy Ford. With the seven senior team members graduating, the seven juniors will have the challenge of continuing Lancer victories.

Bobby Pearson and teammate Kenny Catlett rip down the game nets after victory over Patrick Henry and capturing the Central District title.

Ranking third in the state and leading the Central District in scoring, Tim Rash flips in another of his 1,424 total career points.

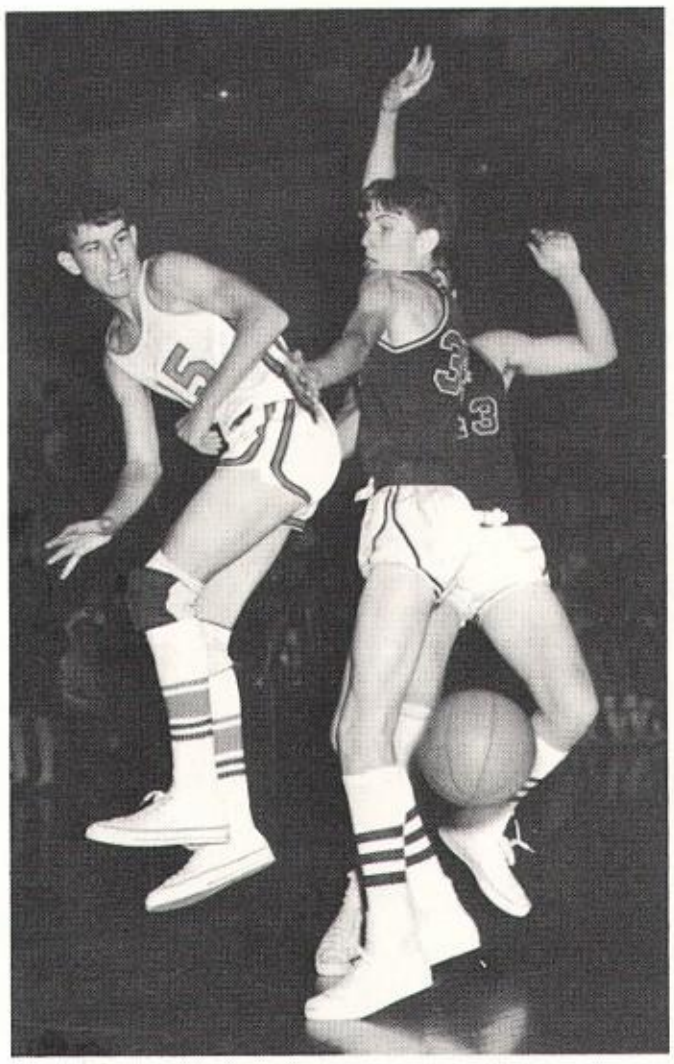
Hard Work, Determination Result In 8–8 JV Season

The JV basketball team dribbled its way to an even season under the direction of Coach Marshall Pearman. Even though the team finished with eight wins and eight losses, the majority of the eight were lost by a few points or in overtime.

Two records were broken during the season. Co-captain Tommy Shelton scored 38 points in one game, and Russell Ford, the other co-captain, brought down 30 rebounds in a single outing.

The JV bench was substituted with the regular starters. This experience will help them in future seasons. The experience gained by the starting JV players will aid in strengthening the varsity team.



Despite Ray Satterwhite's and his opponent's efforts to gain possession of the ball, on a rebound, the ball eludes them.

Varsity baseball completed the season with a record of ten wins and six losses, which left the team holding fourth place in the Central District. This season gives Coach Perrin his twelfth winning season out of fifteen as baseball coach at Manchester.

Co-captain Tommy Carter was named most valuable player on the winning team, and he was also named to the All-Central District Team.

Marshall Caudell, Tommy Carter, and Donald Pike tied as players driving in the most runs. Marshall Caudell is retiring after his third year as co-captain and Roy Marable is leaving the team as its most improved player this year.

The morale of the team was boosted this year with the addition of bleachers, dugouts, shrubbery, and new uniforms for the team.

JV Baseball, 13–2–1, Wins Third Central District Title

Despite the loss of its pitcher and catcher to the varsity team, the JV baseball team ended its season with a 13–2–1 record giving MHS the Central District JV Baseball Championship for the third time in six years. Although injuries prevented pitcher, Sterling Cordle, and outfielder, Dan Penny, from participating in several games, five records were broken, and two were tied. Broken records were those for runs scored, bases stolen, number of walks, number of times at bat, and the number of runs batted in. Records for times on base and the highest batting average were tied.

Even though all pitchers and outfielders were new to the team, the winning record of Manchester's JV baseball team was maintained. Surprised by success, the team attributed its achievements to determination and dedicated teamwork.

The Lancer Track Team, led by Coach Granger Ancarrow, completed its season with an undefeated record. They returned victorious from both the County and Central District Meets, and placed sixth in the Regional Meet between the Central and Capital Districts. Two boys, Walter Chalkley and Mike Cullen, qualified for the State meet.

Five records were broken during the season. Mike Cullen broke the discus record with a throw of 148'3", and Doug Miller established a record in the quarter mile with a time of 0:51.7. A time of 3:33.7 was set by the mile relay team; Grayson Mullins timed 10:14.3 in the two mile. David Briggs set the 220 at 0:22.4, and he also tied the existing 100 yard dash record of 0:10.2. Jimmy Cheatham, Mullins, and Briggs, who was voted most valuable player, were tri-captains of the team.

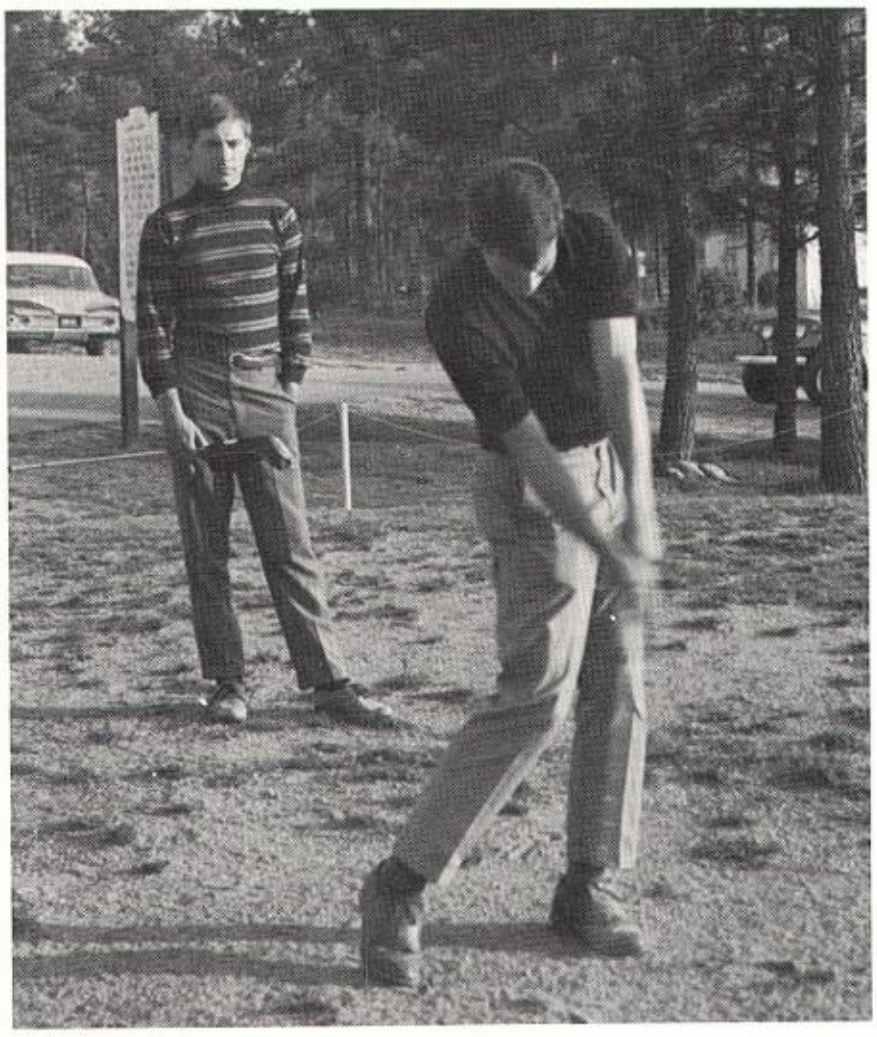
Golfers Send Representative To State Tournament



Tim Rash tees off from the first hole as Jon Harris awaits his turn.

This year completed the third season for the golf team. Since there was a larger turnout, the golf team became more balanced. Golf is now a regular part of the athletic program at Manchester.

With five old players returning, Coach Gene Self added four more members to the squad. Consistency was the biggest problem. One game was exceptionally well played, but the outcome of the next would be the opposite. Even with this problem, the team finished with three wins, eight losses, and one tie.

Four men lettered, two of whom will return next year and two who played their first year on the squad, who will graduate. Tommy Witt led the scoring with twenty-five points. Tim Rash was given the opportunity to play in the Regional Golf Tournament at Meadowbrook Country Club. The score of 79 qualified him for the State Group 1-A Tournament held at Lake Wright in Norfolk. There Tim placed tenth in the state.

Fast Break Tactics Help Girls Attain 8–2 Record

The members of the girls' varsity basketball team proved themselves to be athletes. They concluded their season with a record of eight wins and two losses. Striving for improvement throughout the season, the girls' squad lost only to Meadowbrook and Thomas Dale. Even with these losses, Manchester finished second in the district behind Meadowbrook.

As they experimented with new tactics, the girls found that the fast break was most profitable. They exercised this technique in all of their games. A good offense also provided several reasons for the Lancers' victories. Even though practice sessions were hard, the girls were justly rewarded.

The rebound is the subject of interest to Sheila Spain, Sara Lux, Lynn Ivey, and their opponents.

JV Girls Maintain Spirit Despite Close Defeats

The girls' JV Basketball team acquired a new coach, Mrs. Marth Rogers. Several games were lost by just a few points, but the season ended with two wins and six losses.

Two changes were made in the official rules. Unlimited dribble was granted and the players were allowed to rove instead of remaining stationary.

Midlothian was played three times. Manchester lost only one of these games, and this was only by one point. The toughest competition was Huguenot. Their height was much greater than that of the smaller Lancer players.

Improvement was made in accurate shooting and passing. This was one by practicing foul shots, passing drills, and scrimmages with the Varsity team.

Above: Mrs. Rogers points out the mistakes in the last play to Darlene Claytor, Christol Bussard, and Pauline Harris during the time out. Right: Pauline Harris stretches to get the jump ball at the beginning of the third quarter.

1968 Tennis Team Marks First Year At Manchester

Tennis was new to Manchester's athletic schedule. This year was used to gain experience and improvement for following seasons. Mr. Micky Luck, the coach, encouraged the boys and showed them the fundamental racket holds and playing techniques. Only one team player graduated which left nine returnees. Of the ten team members, four gained the needed playing time which entitled them to letter.

Their best performance was against Meadowbrook with scores of 3–6 and 2–7. The inexperience of some team members constituted a major handicap, but with determination and extra practices, the closing games predicted good prospects for next year.

Tri–Captains Lead Girls To 6–3 Winning Season

The girls finished their softball season with a record of six wins and three losses. Five new players were added to the team. The softball team had their own field on which they played. It is located to the side of the school. Whenever inclimate weather occurred, practice was held inside the gym.

Experience was gained by the new team members. Two freshmen acquired enough playing time to letter. Sportsmanship was always emphasized whenever the team was on the field. The team members believed this to be a necessity for a game to be well played. Only one injury occurred during this season which kept one of the girls out of the last game. Four seniors graduated this year, which will leave the team without a pitcher, catcher, centerfielder, or manager.

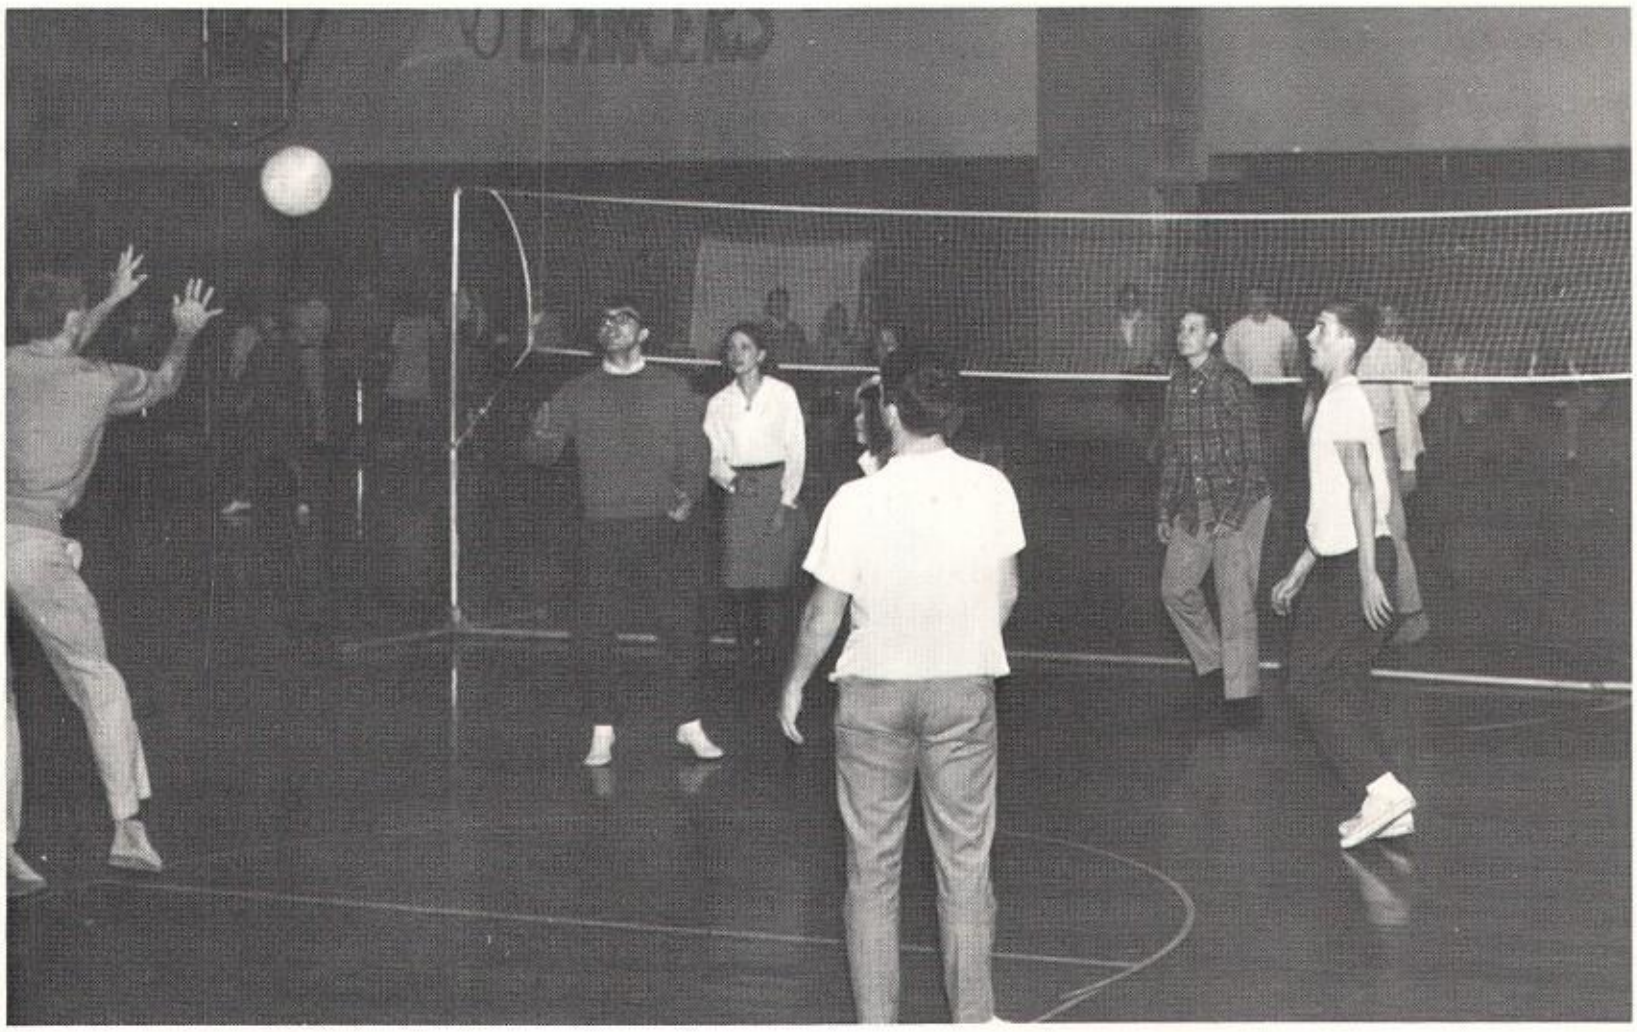
Intramurals Offer Variety Of Individual Sports

A more extensive intramural program was carried out this year. Under the direction of Mrs. Martha Rogers, Manchester is distinguished as being the first school in the county with a program like this. All intramural competition was played during activities period. The purpose of this program was to encourage non-club members to take part in some recreation. Entrance requirements were limited to anyone not participating in the varsity sport. Intramurals were provided not to teach the students as pupils, but to give them the opportunity to use and exercise their skills.

During the first semester, volleyball was played. This competition existed between homerooms and resulted in class rivalry. The winning homeroom was Miss Starkey's, 12–2–401. Mike Baumgardner and Violet Woodfin won the Ping-Pong competition. Joe Trueblood became the chess winner, and Brenda Boswell led the field in checkers. Tennis completed the intramural schedule which resulted in Dale Hansen as the champion.

Brenda Boswell studies the board and waits for her turn to carry out her strategy as Craig Lane makes his move.



While other members of their homeroom watch, Kenny Catlett sets up the volleyball for Bill Crostic to spike into their opponents' court.

Lanny Shows Spirit By Supporting School Activities

Lanny Gremlin represents school spirit at M.H.S. Sponsored by Quill and Scroll, Sarah Lux, '67 Lanny, encouraged support and enthusiasm at all school functions.

Among the duties that Lanny completed were the decorating of the team room, writing spirited letters to the teams, drawing posters and signs, presenting pep talks, and making speeches about school spirit.

In her spare time, Sarah worked with the cheerleaders in producing unique ideas for arousing spirit in the student body. She also yelled at all games and promoted sportsmanship throughout the school. At the end of each assembly, Lanny dedicatedly led the school in singing the alma mater.

Below Right: Anxiety is the emotion on Lanny's face as she yells with the cheerleaders during the Thomas Dale game.

Squad Cheers For Girls' Basketball And JV Teams

Displaying spirit and enthusiasm, the junior varsity cheerleaders encouraged the JV teams to victory. The squad, consisting of four freshmen and four sophomores, eagerly attended all JV football, basketball, and baseball games as well as some of the girls' basketball games. These girls also showed their spirit by making colorful posters for the games, and by giving each JV team a party at the end of the season.

Under the direction of Miss Myra Proctor, the JV cheerleaders were kept busy at the varsity games by selling programs and refreshments, and doing sideline cheers. They also cheered during half-time at the varsity football games.

Cheerleaders Boost Spirit With New Cheers, Skits

The ten varsity cheerleaders devoted their time and efforts to gathering school spirit and support for all athletic activities. Beginning practice during the summer, the cheerleaders started preparations for new cheers and songs. A big football schedule sign was made. They also prepared tea for the football team during the summer practices.

S.S.S. (Spirit, Sportsmanship, Score) week was one of their many spirit boosting projects throughout the year. A basketball game between the senior and junior girls of the varsity squad and the "Spirit-In", were two of the unique pep rally ideas. A bon fire pep rally was held before the game with Meadowbrook. Co-sponsored by Mrs. Polly Holland and Mrs. Bonnie Kain, the cheerleaders encouraged the study body to show their spirit. The cheerleaders also decorated the team room for the Homecoming game and the last home basketball game. Through their interesting and spirit boosting activities, the cheerleaders, co-sponsored by Mrs. Polly Holland and Mrs. Bonnie Kain, encouraged the student body to show their spirit.

ELECTRICITY: MUSCLE OF INDUSTRY

Behind the great industrial might of America stands a "giant workman" — electric energy. It would require the muscle energy of 70 men working 40 hours a week for one whole year to equal 10,000 kilowatt hours of electricity — less than the average annual consumption of two Vepco residential customers. Graduates Pause At Entrance To Life's Highway; Underclassmen Continue To Journey School's Roads

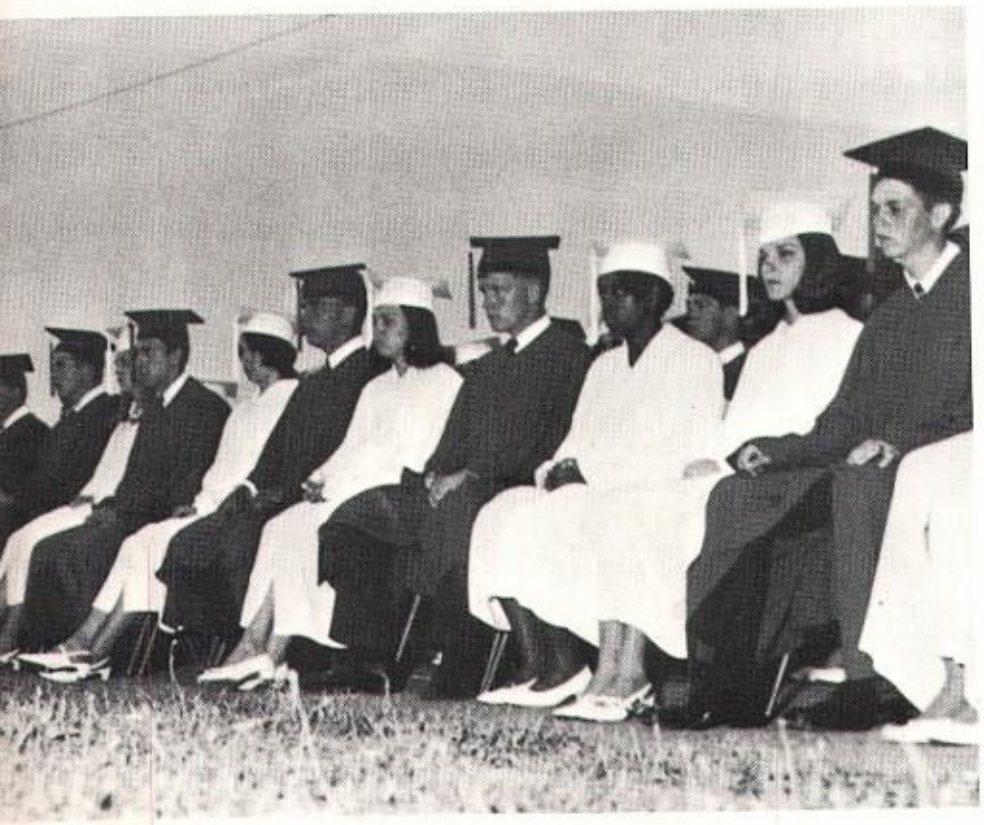
Symbolic of a year's events or of a future's promises, roads seem to offer endless variety. As roads appear to stretch forever, they represent life's limitless opportunities. "67–68" is but a small segment of the highway of time. The accomplishments and failures of the year which has past will influence the selection of tomorrow's plans. The close of a school year brings either graduation's flood of nostalgic memories or plans for a summer's fun coupled with the knowledge that fall will bring a return to classes. But, graduates find themselves engaged in the giant road building program of their futures. The roads of opportunity at MHS form part of the gateway to tomorrow.

Right: The end of the year is locker clean-up time for senior Patty Langford. Below: Graduates listen attentively to speakers' addresses as they begin to realize that this part of their lives is finished.



He Walked In Courage

The Manchester community was deeply saddened by the death, on February 19, 1968, of Bernard Davis, a deeply loved faculty member. A native of Chesterfield County, Mr. Davis had served as art teacher on the faculty to Manchester High School for eleven years. Even before he accepted a position on the faculty, he developed and printed numerous pictures for the newspaper and yearbook staffs when they needed pictures in a hurry.

An active participant in civic groups and in his church, Mr. Davis was educational chairman of the Manchester Ruritan Club at the time of his death. Another civic activity included membership in the James River Art Society. He was a member and an organizer of the Chesterfield Junior Chamber of Commerce. As a member of this group, Mr. Davis worked for some time with the Little League baseball team.

He was intensely interested in promoting honesty among the students and worked diligently to make the Honor Code more effective at Manchester. For several years he was sponsor of the Honor Council and was largely responsible for its reorganization in the fall of 1964.

In the classroom he taught students the meaning of life as interpreted by artists through the ages. His intellect, wit, compassion, and real desire to have his students appreciate art made his classes interesting and enlightening. Class field trips to paint scenes and places in Chesterfield County brought appreciation of its native beauty. Gregory's Mill was one of the spots most often painted by his classes.

He never said "no" when students asked him to help with a school project. Many times he worked until the morning hours to help complete displays to take to conventions. One night he and several students were at school working and they became so engrossed that the students forgot to call home and explain that they were completing an SCA display for a state convention. About three a.m. a knock on the door of the art room reminded them of the time. There stood an irate parent.

He enjoyed having students visit his home, and often invited a group over for a cookout. On one occasion he welcomed the entire faculty by inviting them to lunch at the opening of school.

Mr. Davis received his B.S. from the University of Virginia. In addition to teaching, he was well known in Virginia for his sketches of historical homes. Many homes and places of business have been built according to his architectural plans.

Many illnesses plagued him throughout his years at Manchester. Several times he was hospitalized. Arthritis necessitated his using a cane for years before he died, but nothing slowed down his zest for life.

Bernard Davis is an inspiration to those who knew him —students of Manchester will remember him with love and grateful hearts.

"The measure of a life is not its duration, but its donation."
